Focusing on the ability and potential of persons with disabilities is the key to success. Creating inclusive societies where everyone feels they can contribute can be achieved through awareness, education and modern technology. Plans must consider the circumstances of all those with disabilities, not a one-size-fits-all approach.

Hon. Kevin Cutajar, MP
Member of Parliament, Malta