66th Commonwealth Parliamentary Conference Conference Concluding Statement

6 October 2023

COMMONWEALTH PARLIAMENTARIANS attending the 66th Commonwealth Parliamentary Conference and associated meetings recognised the Commonwealth's commitment to democracy and met under the conference theme of 'The Commonwealth Charter 10 years on: Values and Principles for Parliaments to Uphold'. 2023 marks the 10th anniversary of the Commonwealth Charter which outlines the principles and values of the Commonwealth.

66th Commonwealth Parliamentary Conference - Opening Addresses

The Vice-Patron of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association (CPA), His Excellency Nana Akufo-Addo, the President of Ghana, urged Commonwealth Parliamentarians to work together to uphold democratic principles and the values of the Commonwealth as he opened the 66th Commonwealth Parliamentary Conference (66th CPC) for over 600 delegates in Accra, Ghana. The CPA Vice-Patron and President of Ghana said: “The world is still experiencing the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic, which compelled us to work together to survive. As we exit the doldrums of the pandemic, the world has been hit again with a series of geo-political crises, including the Russian invasion of Ukraine and the recent coup d'états in some parts of Africa. These crises are a threat to the foundation of our democratic values and institutions, and a clarion call for us to work together to address this new challenge. It is a call on all Parliaments to act. I urge Commonwealth Parliamentarians to reflect deeply on the goal of the values and principles in the Commonwealth Charter and focus your discussions on the goal of attaining and maintaining the democratic ethos of this noble community. I commend the Commonwealth for its commitment to the rule of law, open and tolerant societies, equality for all and respect for fundamental human rights and freedoms.”

Delegates to the 66th CPC were welcomed by the CPA President (2022-2023), Rt Hon. Alban Bagbin, MP, Speaker of the Parliament of Ghana who said at the opening ceremony: “On behalf of the Parliament of Ghana, I welcome all Commonwealth Parliamentarians to Accra for the 66th Commonwealth Parliamentary Conference which brings together delegates on a single platform to share their experiences and good practices as well as promoting the values of the Commonwealth. This includes a commitment to the highest standards and principles of democratic governance and parliamentary practice. Democracy will remain elusive if we are not deliberate in our efforts to ensure the independence of Parliaments. Our Parliaments can be strengthened if we empower our oversight Committees to effectively review government actions, budgets and policies. We can strengthen our Parliaments through civic education programs that inform citizens about their rights and the need to protect parliamentary democracy.”

Delegates were also welcomed by the CPA Chairperson, Hon. Ian Liddell-Grainer, MP (United Kingdom); the CPA Vice-Chairperson, Hon. Osei Kyei-Mensah Bonsu, MP, Majority Leader in the Parliament of Ghana; and the Ghanaian Minister for Foreign Affairs, Hon. Shirley Ayorkor Botchwey. The vote of thanks was given by the Chairperson of the Commonwealth Women Parliamentarians (CWP), Hon. Dr Zainab Gimba, MP (Nigeria).

The CPA Secretary-General, Stephen Twigg said: “On behalf of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association, it is my great pleasure to welcome delegates to the 66th Commonwealth Parliamentary Conference, in Accra, and thank the CPA Ghana Branch and Parliament of Ghana, and in particular the CPA President and CPA Vice-Chairperson for their generosity in hosting this year’s conference. This conference offers an invaluable opportunity to come together and share best practice in addressing common issues and strengthening Commonwealth values, as the theme on the Commonwealth Charter attests. The values within the Charter, and the vital role the CPA has in sustaining and reinforcing them, are as relevant today as they were when they were originally signed in 2013. With our coming together on the tenth anniversary of the Commonwealth Charter, it provides us with an opportunity to review the relevance of its values and principles, as well as assessing how the Commonwealth is progressing against these pledges. Commitments to democracy, human rights and good governance are cornerstones of the CPA’s work, and these Charter principles play a part in everything we do as an Association.”

Inaugural Lifaka Lecture highlights key role for Commonwealth Parliamentarians in promoting global education

The inaugural CPA Emilia Monjowa Lifaka Lecture highlighted the key role of Commonwealth Parliamentarians in global education. The Lifaka Lecture took place in the margins of the 66th Commonwealth Parliamentary Conference in Accra, Ghana and was attended by delegates and the Ghanaian diplomatic community.

The CPA Lifaka Lecture has been established in memory of Hon. Emilia Monjowa Lifaka, the late Chairperson of the CPA International Executive Committee and Deputy Speaker of Cameroon. Hon. Monjowa Lifaka was a passionate champion of the CPA and served as CPA Chairperson from November 2017 until her untimely death in April 2021. The CPA Lifaka Lecture is intended to provide a fitting tribute to her work.

The keynote address was given by Betty Abeng, Chief Executive Officer of the Commonwealth Education Trust, who spoke about the importance of education for all Commonwealth citizens and the key objective of achieving UN Sustainable Development Goal 4 on ensuring “inclusive and equitable quality education and promote lifelong learning opportunities for all”. About 260 million children are not in school across the world, undermining efforts to achieve the 17 SDGs. She also highlighted the importance of effective communication skills for all children including the ability to read, understand and connect as this aids a young person’s journey in life. Her organization exists to curb ‘learning poverty’ by providing teacher support programmes to increase literacy among children below the age of ten.

The response came from Dr Leslie Casey-Hayford, Director of Associates for Change, West Africa and a Ghana-based international education development expert who highlighted the importance of a life of service and civic duty for all. The Commonwealth has a youthful population – with 60% of its citizens aged under 30 - which holds the potential to shape and secure fair, peaceful and sustainable globalisation and leadership. She concluded that the Lifaka Lecture effectively conveyed the idea that serving constituencies and communities requires dedication, commitment and advocacy for the concerns of the people.

The Chairperson of the Lecture, Hon. Mary Muyali Boya, Deputy Speaker of the National Assembly of Cameroon welcomed the Lifaka Lecture as a fitting tribute to Hon. Emilia Monjowa Lifaka and the session ended with a vote of thanks by Hon. Peter Nortsu-Kotoe, MP from Ghana.

The inaugural CPA Lifaka Lecture was also supported by the International Parliamentary Network for Education (IPNEd).

The Commonwealth Parliamentary Association's unique membership includes almost 180 national, state, provincial and territorial Legislatures. The next awards will be open for nominees in 2024. Through these annual awards, the CPA will recognise and highlight the invaluable contributions that Parliamentarians are making to their local communities and both nationally and internationally within the Commonwealth."*

Commonwealth Parliamentarians with Disabilities highlight local projects

The Commonwealth Parliamentarians with Disabilities (CPwD) network, led by the CPwD Chairperson, Hon. Laura Kanushu, MP (Uganda), highlighted the work of local projects helping persons with disabilities during the 66th Commonwealth Parliamentary Conference in Ghana. The CPwD Chairperson, accompanied by the Regional Champions of the network and the CPA Secretary-General, Stephen Twigg, went to the Accra Rehabilitation Centre in the West Ridge area of Ghana’s capital city, Accra, to see their work. The Centre runs vocational courses in visual art, leatherwork, masonry, carpentry, cosmetology, tailoring, needle work and rural craft to provide people with a variety of disabilities with employable skills.

The CPwD Chairperson said: “Grassroots OPDs [organisations for persons with disabilities] are of vital importance to empowering people with disabilities globally. Any Parliamentarian, with or without a disability, must engage with such bodies to develop their understanding of how they can represent the disability community of their jurisdiction. This activity provided an excellent opportunity for the CPwD’s board to learn more about the work of OPDs in the 66th CPC’s host jurisdiction in Ghana and we will take back what we have learnt for our work as Parliamentarians across the Commonwealth.”

The Regional Champions of the Commonwealth Parliamentarians with Disabilities (CPwD) network also met during the 66th Commonwealth Parliamentary Conference in Accra. During the meeting, the CPwD Regional Champions set the agenda for the network for the year ahead. At the meeting, the Secretariat reported on its recent CPwD activities, such as its Capital Investment Fund supporting Parliaments to become more accessible, and the Champions were briefed on what projects are planned for 2024, such as an update to the CPA’s Disability Inclusive Communications Guidelines.

66th COMMONWEALTH PARLIAMENTARY CONFERENCE – WORKSHOPS:

Main conference theme: ‘The Commonwealth Charter 10 years on: Values and Principles for Parliaments to Uphold’

On day five of the 66th Commonwealth Parliamentary Conference, delegates took part in eight learning and development workshops. The workshops provided a space for delegates to share their experiences as Parliamentarians and discuss issues including human rights, the separation of powers and gender quotas. Highlights included a showcase on how deepfakes can spread disinformation and a youth roundtable attended by students from universities across Ghana. Detailed reports from the workshops will be available in the next issue of The Parliamentarian, Journal of Commonwealth Parliaments.

The eight main conference workshops and their recommendations were as follows:

Workshop A: The threat of terrorism to statehood: the role of Parliament (CPA Ghana Branch Host Topic)

The workshop explored the threats of terrorist extremism to democracies and statehood, shedding light on the multifaceted challenges it poses across West Africa and their implications for security and stability. It further delved into the role that Parliaments must assume in combatting this menace to safeguard the security and integrity of states.

Panellists including the Ghana Minister for National Security and a Commandant from the Ghana Defence College underscored the role that Parliaments must play in combatting these threats: promoting good governance; ensuring accountability; sensitising the public through awareness campaigns and education; fostering national cohesion and unity; improving the quality of investigative mechanisms by funding security institutions; enacting laws to protect citizens; promoting collaborative endeavours between governments and civil society organisations (CSOs); allocating adequate resources to security organisations to counter terrorism; and driving accountability by ensuring efficient use of resources by security agencies.

At the end of the session, participants were of the view that:

- Parliaments should collaborate with stakeholders to improve governance architecture and ensure equitable distribution of resources; benchmark best practices for the involvement of Parliaments in combatting terrorism; perform their oversight responsibilities to ensure accountability; make appropriate legislation to combat cross-border terrorism; and address the root cause of terrorism.

Workshop B: Gender Quotas in Parliament - a means to an end? (Commonwealth Women Parliamentarians topic)

The workshop evaluated the effectiveness of gender quotas in Parliaments. Despite progress made in many areas, women's representation in Parliaments remains inadequate. Gender quotas have emerged as a promising strategy to address this disparity for an equitable distribution of power and influence.

Two Members from Bangladesh and Sierra Leone outlined the efforts in their Parliaments to achieve gender equality including constitutional amendments and proportional representation as well as some of the barrier facing women such as generational issues. The journey to achieving gender equality requires dedication, funding, legislative support and political will. The UN Women representative noted that women's representation is far from equal and intimated that there are several instances where a quota system may be passed, yet not implemented due to certain barriers. At the current rate of progress, gender parity in Parliaments would not be reached in national Legislatures before 2063 globally if further action was not taken.

The recommendation was unanimously endorsed by workshop delegates that:

- Parliaments of the Commonwealth, with less than 30% women Members, should implement a percentage of gender quotas through legislative means or via political party candidate selections.

Workshop C: What does sustainable trade and economic development mean for small jurisdictions? (CPA Small Branches topic)

The workshop explored what sustainable trade and economic development means for small jurisdictions as well as the challenges and opportunities they face in promoting sustainable economic growth through international trade. It was discussed that most small jurisdictions vary in size and population thereby presenting unique challenges faced by each in terms of global markets, infrastructure, market access and regulatory barriers.

Members from Jamaica, Malta, The Gambia and Fiji outlined their experiences of sustainable trade and development and emphasised that economic development requires a multi-faceted approach that meets the needs of small jurisdictions and finding innovative ways to use their strength and ability to be agile. The concept of sustainable trade was also seen as a critical feature in minimizing poverty in small jurisdictions, and sometimes smaller jurisdictions are barred from entering international markets due low volumes of production.

Lowering trade barriers to promote economic development, promoting gender equality, an active private sector, developing transportation links of small jurisdictions to the international market, balancing economic growth and environmental diversification as well as social equity were also discussed as some of the factors to promote and improve sustainable trade and economic development.

The delegates at the workshop unanimously endorsed that:

- The Commonwealth's Parliaments in the smallest jurisdictions should collaborate to promote fair and sustainable international trade.

Workshop D: Youth Roundtable: Role of the Commonwealth in international security and peacebuilding (Youth topic)

This workshop took the form of a youth roundtable with youth participants invited from a number of Ghanaian youth organisations. The workshop focused on how the Commonwealth can address the issue of international security and peacebuilding and Members of Parliament from Australia Federal, the United Kingdom and Guyana provided insight into their experiences. With 1.2 billion of the world's population made up of youth aged between 15 and 24 years, it was acknowledged that the youth are often ignored in decision-making and policy formulation, yet they bear the brunt of the effects of climate change and insecurity. It was also recognised that the growth of information technology in the world coupled with more people turning to social media platforms, many young people need more protection online and measures should be in place to tackle cyberbullying. The representative from the Ghana National Peace Council explained that Ghana has a peacebuilding mechanism that helps resolve conflict and encouraged its adoption by other countries.

During the Q&A session, many young people expressed frustration with youth unemployment levels and the sidelining of youth in decision making, however, the panellists encouraged youth participants to go through the appropriate channels for redress.

The workshop delegates unanimously endorsed the following recommendation:

- Commonwealth Parliamentarians should champion peacebuilding initiatives, actively involve youth and collaborate across the Commonwealth network, in order to bolster the Commonwealth's role in international security for a more peaceful, secure future.

Workshop E: Environmental approaches in tackling energy poverty

The workshop heard from presenters from Kenya, India Union and a UK Government agency, the Crown Agents on the implementation of clean energy and facilitating the adoption of biofuels. Commonwealth Parliamentarians have a key role to play as legislators, scrutineers and representatives to help drive this agenda.

It was outlined that India is developing policies based on five key enablers: energy availability, accessibility, affordability, sustainability and efficiency. India has developed schemes in tackling energy poverty, such as Saubhagya and Ujjwala, and boasts of the largest solar park in the world. However, the presenter from Kenya remarked that it is the responsibility of both government and citizens to tackle energy poverty. A major challenge remains the unwillingness of communities in rural areas to transition from fossil fuel to clean energy as charcoal continues to be a cheaper option. Some solutions that have been initiated are rural electrification, diversification of electricity sources, creation of a National Energy Policy, compulsory use of solar for water heating systems, and community sensitisation.

The following recommendation was endorsed unanimously by workshop delegates that:

- Parliamentarians across the Commonwealth must seek to ensure there is secure, reliable, efficient, affordable and environmentally sustainable energy provision available to all.

Workshop F: 20 Years of the Latimer House Principles on the Separation of Powers: Is it working?

This workshop recognised the role of the CPA in drafting the original 'Commonwealth Latimer House Principles on the Separation of Powers' along with other Commonwealth organisations, but also outlined that all Commonwealth jurisdictions have a role in implementing them.

Panellists from Trinidad and Tobago, Malaysia and Australia outlined how their Parliaments implement the separation of powers and the challenges that it can bring. It was recognised that during the COVID-19 pandemic, some Parliaments enacted procedures in contravention of the separation of powers. It was suggested that a Parliamentary Service Act could be introduced as had been proposed in Malaysia. The presenter from Derby University spoke about the principle of veto powers by the Executive that operates in several Commonwealth jurisdictions and whether this promotes democracy or is antithetical to it.

No recommendation was passed during the workshop.

Workshop G: The Commonwealth Charter: A Charter for all Human Rights, or just some?

The workshop deliberated how Parliamentarians and Civil Society Organisations (CSOs) could promote and uphold human rights values in the Commonwealth. Discussions led by Members from KwaZulu-Natal, Turks and Caicos Islands, Scotland, the Commonwealth Equality Network and the Ghana Human Rights and Justice Commission highlighted gender equality, protection of the rights of LGBT+ persons, capacity-building, disability and refugees' rights. CPA Members were encouraged to promote human rights legislation and policies in their respective jurisdictions. The need to respect cultural rights were, however, expressed by some participants.

The workshop, by majority, endorsed the following recommendation that:

- The Commonwealth Charter should apply to all Commonwealth citizens irrespective of race, religion, gender, sexual orientation, age or political views and Parliaments should be actively working to promote the human rights of all.

Workshop H: E-Parliaments: An effective mechanism for intersectional diversity and equitable public engagement?

The workshop focused on how effective e-Parliaments would promote public engagement, enhance Parliaments' legitimacy, transparency and accountability, and how to best include marginalised groups. Parliamentarians from Trinidad and Tobago, New South Wales and Malaysia outlined the need for making Parliaments more accessible, particularly to persons with disabilities, and the need to mitigate the risk involved in integrating technology into the work of Parliament. During the COVID-19 pandemic, E-Parliaments helped to enhance public engagement in parliamentary processes through digital methods. However, there continues to be a number of challenges for Parliaments regarding the best way to engage the public and in measuring and evaluating these activities. The workshop intimated that, although the role of technology is essential in promoting democracy, there are notable challenges such as the digital divide in society and data protection and privacy rights.

The workshop delegates unanimously endorsed the following recommendation:

- Parliaments should embrace their representative function, both in the diversity of its membership and through engaging with the public, including via appropriate and innovative approaches.

39th CPA SMALL BRANCHES CONFERENCE

Conference Theme: ‘Mobilising Relationships and Resources for Greater Sustainability’

Following several recent natural disasters that have affected the smallest jurisdictions in the Commonwealth, Parliaments and Governments are increasingly required to prepare for different eventualities. Commonwealth Parliamentarians met at the 39th CPA Small Branches Conference to examine the unique challenges they face in mobilising resources for greater sustainability. The conference discussed strategies to meet the unique developmental needs of the CPA’s smallest Legislatures through key thematic workshops that helped to build parliamentary capacity for the CPA Small Branches and create greater opportunities for the sharing of knowledge, parliamentary strengthening and cooperation across the network.

The CPA Small Branches Chairperson, Joy Burch, MLA, Speaker of the Australian Capital Territory Legislative Assembly said: “The CPA Small Branches Conference helps to build capacities for the small Parliaments and Legislatures of the Commonwealth and create greater and more constant opportunities for the sharing of knowledge and cooperation across the CPA network. The CPA Small Branches come together to address their common difficulties, common strengths and their shared experiences.”

In the margins of the conference, the CPA Small Branches Steering Committee met to discuss the strategic direction for the network. The CPA Small Branches Steering Committee comprises the CPA Small Branches Chairperson and nine Commonwealth Parliamentarians who represent the nine Regions of the CPA. Of the almost 180 Branches of the CPA, forty-nine Branches are classified as ‘Small Branches’.

The classification for CPA Small Branches was changed by the CPA General Assembly last year to raise the population threshold to one million people. The 39th CPA Small Branches Conference took place as part of the wider 66th Commonwealth Parliamentary Conference in Accra, Ghana.

CPA Small Branches Workshop A: The Impact of Population Changes on Small Jurisdictions

The workshop noted that population changes have both negative and positive impacts which pose unique and varying effects on society. Some of the positive effects of population changes in small jurisdictions are strong community cohesion, diverse cultures (which could lead to having a big diaspora) and the drive to collect real time data to strengthen economic bases. However, panellists from the Isle of Man, Anguilla, Nauru and Guernsey dwelt more on the challenges and how their governments are mitigating them. Major among the challenges was the ‘brain drain’, where young people migrate to developed countries for greener pastures, resulting in lack of labour and an increased pressure on taxes. Other adverse effects are migration due to natural disasters, pressure on educational, health and housing resources, and payment of retirement benefits.

The following recommendation was endorsed by workshop delegates:

- Parliamentarians must actively engage in crafting and implementing strategic policies to address population changes in small jurisdictions, including social, economic and environmental factors.

CPA Small Branches Workshop B: Small Parliaments Working Together: Services and Resource Sharing

The workshop focused on how small Parliaments can collaborate to share resources and services for the mutual benefit of all. It looked at potential opportunities that might exist for sharing services and resources, and the challenges involved in achieving the set goals. Discussions on potential opportunities that exist for sharing services and resources, and the role that the CPA and other entities could play in facilitating the approach were held. Panellists came from Newfoundland and Labrador, Guernsey, Jersey and Fiji.

The following recommendation was endorsed unanimously by workshop delegates:

- Where possible, small Parliaments should consider pursuing opportunities to share or pool resources and services for mutual benefit in strengthening collective parliamentary good governance.

CPA Small Branches Workshop C: Building Independent Parliaments: Ensuring Financial and Administrative Autonomy

The workshop recognised that for Parliaments to function effectively, it is important for them to be independent financially and administratively. The workshop panellists from Belize, Australian Capital Territory, the Seychelles and the CPA Secretariat noted that in order to achieve independence, there ought to be a level of separation of powers, which admittedly is more difficult under the Westminster system of Government than the Presidential system. It was observed that there is the need for collaboration, without interference, among the three arms of government to ensure the independence of Parliaments. Although Legislatures acknowledge the principle of separation of powers in practice, the financial and administrative aspects of the operations of the Legislature are still tied to the Executive. To limit this, the workshop shared ideas on some of the ways to achieve independence, which include enforcing robust Parliamentary Committees, public education and applying the sub judice rule.

The following recommendation was endorsed by workshop delegates:

- Parliaments must be sufficiently independent of the Executive, and have access to resources and control mechanisms to function effectively, including those outlined in the CPA Benchmarks for Democratic Legislatures.

CPA Small Branches Workshop D: Tackling Climate Change Through Environmental Impact Assessments

The workshop deliberated on how climate change affects small jurisdictions and how they can play a pivotal role in addressing the global climate crisis. The effects of climate change include increasing levels of melting sea ice, rise in sea levels and flooding. The workshop considered the use of Environmental Impact Assessments (EIAs) as powerful tools for change. Panellists came from Australian Capital Territory, Jersey, British Virgin Islands and ASU Global Institute of Sustainability and Innovation.

Workshop delegates unanimously endorsed the recommendation that:

- Parliamentarians must ensure that Environmental Impact Assessments align with and support sustainable development goals, avoiding conflicts and promoting a harmonious approach to climate resilience in small jurisdictions.

Commonwealth Women Parliamentarians aim to further gender equality and representation in Parliaments

Women Parliamentarians from across the Commonwealth have met at the 66th Commonwealth Parliamentary Conference (CPC) in Accra, Ghana. Meetings of the Commonwealth Women Parliamentarians (CWP) network were held at the conference to discuss gender sensitisation and quotas. This was also the first CPC held since the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association introduced new measures aiming to ensure equal gender representation at its annual conference resulting in a 60/40 male/female gender ratio amongst voting delegates.

The Commonwealth Women Parliamentarians (CWP) is the network of women Members of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association's Parliament and Legislatures. The CWP network provides a means of building the capacity of women elected to Parliament to be effective in their roles; improving the awareness and ability of all Parliamentarians, male and female, and encouraging them to include a gender perspective in all aspects of their role - legislation, oversight and representation and helping Parliaments to become gender-sensitive institutions.

The CWP Business meeting was opened by the Chairperson of the Commonwealth Women Parliamentarians, Hon. Dr Zainab Gimba, MP, Member of the House of Representatives, National Assembly of Nigeria who welcomed delegates and updated on the CWP activities delivered since the 65th Commonwealth Parliamentary Conference in Halifax, Nova Scotia, Canada in August 2022. The CWP Chairperson also pledged to renew the effort to increase women's representation and political participation in Parliaments across the Commonwealth.

COMMONWEALTH WOMEN PARLIAMENTARIANS (CWP)

Delegates debated the time and format of future CWP Business meetings and conferences as well as the methods for reporting of CWP activities through the Regional Secretariats, with a motion passed by delegates containing further recommendations for the CWP Steering Committee (more time to be allocated for CWP Business meetings, CWP reports be distributed to Members prior to Business meetings, themes are developed to guide annual activities of the CWP, and new Members receive an induction into the CWP).

The CWP Steering Committee met in Ghana representing the seven of the nine CPA Regions: Africa; Asia; Australia; British Isles and the Mediterranean; Canada; Caribbean, Americas and the Atlantic; and Pacific.

The CWP Steering Committee elected Hon. Kate Doust, MLC from the Parliament of Western Australia as the new CWP Vice-Chairperson for a one-year term and agreed on the establishment of a new Subcommittee to examine a future work programme for the network.

UN Women event: 'Ending Discrimination in Law: Celebrating the Gains'

In the margins of the 66th Commonwealth Parliamentary Conference, delegates also attended a CWP and UN Women co-hosted event that highlighted the support available to achieve gender-responsive legislation and advance state commitments around global goals pertaining to gender equality. Women in all parts of the world suffer violence and discrimination and they are under-represented in political and economic decision-making processes. Parliamentarians and experts gave key highlights from legal assessments across the Commonwealth, concrete actions that have been taken and the elements of successful reform efforts.

The CWP President (2023), Hon. Patricia Appiagyei, MP from the Parliament of Ghana spoke to delegates about her experience as a legislator and stated that “It is an indictable fact that women across the globe face various forms of discrimination in their everyday activities. Millions of women worldwide are denied access to education, health services, and economic opportunities due to their gender. According to the United Nations, women around the world between the ages of 24 and 35 are 25% more likely than men to live in extreme poverty. This unequal treatment of people based on their gender has serious lifelong and generational effects.”

Panellists also included Hon. Donatille Mukabalisa, Speaker of the Parliament of Rwanda and Ms Marsha Caddle, MP, House of Assembly of Barbados. The Speaker of Rwanda spoke about gender discrimination and reflected on the impact of the Rwanda 1994 genocide on women such as exclusion from education, employment and property rights. Rwanda has since implemented gender mainstreaming policies, strategies and programmes resulting in the amendment of a number of discriminatory laws and the introduction of laws that promote gender equality. The Member from Barbados shared an update on significant reforms involving government, the private sector and labour to collaborate in the enactment of legislation and workshops on gender-based violence.

Dr Beatrice Duncan, Senior Policy Advisor, Rule of Law and Maureen Shonge, Policy Specialist WPP from UN Women spoke about the recent trends in discriminatory laws, successful reforms and how they were achieved.
